would blow up a vessel near the Navy Yard, Boookiyn out, owing to a severe storm, the experiment was post coped until the 1st of this month, when quite a numbe f persons went to see the affair, but not a man can be who saw anything of the old hulk or the torpedo vessel. A report was circulated, however, that Mr. boat off the Navy Yard, and remained under the water upwards of nine hours, affixing to the sussion lock of the first torpedo, containing fifty pounds of powder, was exploded, but owing to some defectivo sommunications the powder was not ignited. The second torpede contained one hundred pounds of powder, with three percussion locks. In attempting to fire the charge of powder the wire connection ran of the spoot, and no explosion took pince. The sloop was then towed to Bushwick creek, where at low tide she could be seen with the two torpedoes attached to her bottom. The sloop was not blown up, owing to defective terpedoes. thousand dollars, have accepted her, and she will proba bly be used in future naval operations. She is fifty feet of a propeller turned by hand.

It was also reported that on a previous occasion this terpedo vessel made a trip around the light ship, having remained under the water over nineteen hours, and the arew of twenty-five men suffered no inconvenience in breathing during that time. Such stories as these were calculated to create an interest in cortain quarters, and Chief Engineer W W. W. Wood, of the United States Mayy, interrogated the inventor of this great vessel, and found him to be ignorant of even the first principles of submarine navigation, not knowing the composition of the atmosphere, or, in fact, any of the vital requirements of a vessel of that description. Mr. Wood could not find any one who had ever seen the vessel, although Mr. Guider stated that she had lain in Newtown creek for a considerable time. We have seen other persons who amow of Mr. Guider, and what he hav said of his vessel, but who do not believe him or his story of his subma-rue invention. City one of the crew of twenty-five men can be found who will come forward and say there is any can be found who will come forward and say there is any such craft in existence.

Mr. Guider stated that he built one some months since and offered it to the United States government, who reduced to have anything to do with it. We know that to be the came, but hir. Guider further asserted that after our government reduced to accept her parties came along who brought her, paying $15,000 angold for her; that these people mamediately took possession of her and navigated her to that its one, passing in among our fleet and reaching the city in safety, and that it was this vessel that blow up the United States steam stoop Hensatonic. These facts coming to the knowledge of the nulborities, detectives were immediately put upon the track, and it is said that Mr. Guider is now an immate of Fort Lafsyette, where he will have an opportunity to meditate upon the loose way he has talked about his affairs. Guider is a ship-carpenter by trade, and, from all we can learn, is either crary or he is a dangerous person to be allowed to be adraft.

ere were parties in this city, of wealth and standing There were parties in this city, of wealth and standing, who were anxious that these experiments should succeed, as they were to have purchased the vessel and offered her services to the government for operations in the Bouthern ports. None of them were allowed to see the vessel or plans of her until she had blown up the old hulk, when a company was to have been organized and the vessel prepared for service. It is a curious affair from beginning to end, and so wrapped in mystery that we do not know where to begin to unravel it.
